AsyncAPI

What is it?

The AsyncAPI Conference is an official event created by the AsyncAPI Initiative. This conference is aimed primarily at the community to share and exchange experiences between existing users and new members. We plan to integrate new members into the community and expand their knowledge about the project.

The objective of AsyncAPI Conf is to improve the community experience by organizing in-person events around the world. Each event will include its own keynote speakers, panels, and networking opportunities, enabling attendees to connect face-to-face while also engaging with the broader global community.

Why become a sponsor?

AsyncAPI is an open initiative that defines asynchronous APIs. It is a project that advocates the freedom of tools and users. By supporting an open-source project, we facilitate the work of a community that aims to create democratizing tools.

Supporting the AsyncAPI Conf will help nurture a growing initiative shaped by and for its community. Ultimately, the project belongs to the community and will continue to do so. They are the people who dedicate their time, effort, and passion to AsyncAPI.
